ARCAT has been a tremendous resource for connecting our business, brands, and product lines with the architect community. As a marketing manager for a large global manufacturer and supplier of building products, ARCAT has helped me form the foundation of our company's architect sales and marketing strategy by providing best-in-class specification tools.

Having ARCAT as a partner in our efforts has allowed us to grow sales through specifications and position our company as a trusted advisor to the AEC community. I've had the pleasure of working with the entire ARCAT team, including Andy Linaman as our district manager, for over 5 years. They are outstanding! Their attention to their client's program and needs is their top priority.

If you are looking to grow sales through getting products specified by architects, I highly recommend a partnership with ARCAT."
